

Round 2 Wrap

Before I jump into the statistics wrap-up I will explain the major change I have made this week. To the left of each player's name they can now have one of 4 different ratings. These are designed to help you out, so take note of players with a rating. 'P' represents a player unlikely to increase on their current price (If you see this next to one of your cash cow's it's time to jump off). 'B' represents the best value around, a 'Bargain' priced player. Consider grabbing one of these blokes to throw in your team. The criteria to reach this status is simple, you need to be currently priced 30% under your average for the year. In other words they have had some stinkers and tanked in price or are performing well above their original price. 'V' and 'R' are very similar and represent a 20% and 10% discount on the player's current year average. Another point to note is currently the 'B', 'V' and 'R' tags are only available for players priced above $300,000 due to the large number of cheaper players who would otherwise get this title. The 'P' title is available to players of all price ranges so you can easily tell when your cash cow's have peaked even if this figure is below $300,000.

Value Picks

I have only included those players who have played two games. Paul Bower is an example who has the 'B' classification however he has only played one game and is therefore not included in this graph.
